Cube Management Announces Candidate Counseling Services

Portland, OR, May 18, 2009, Cube Management is pleased to offer candidates career counseling services on both a one-on-one and group basis. “We have had several requests from our candidates to have the ability to spend quality time talking with a recruiter about their background and experience.” Said Wayne Cozad, II Founder and Managing Partner. In today’s economy it is not only tough to find the time to spend with candidates many new technologies are forcing more and more candidates to submit resumes online and wait for a response. It’s this lack of interaction that is driving more candidates to seek out the assistance of a top recruiter to give them the guidance and feedback they need when honing their job searches.

In this down economy there is an over abundance of candidates on the market forcing employers and recruiters to spend excessive amounts of time reviewing the resumes of candidates that are not remotely qualified for the position they have applied. This coupled with the fact that employers are looking for only “exact fit” candidates makes the entire process frustrating for both candidates and recruiters. “Our Candidate Counseling Services will give candidates the time they need with recruiters to learn what employers are really looking for and make sure that their resumes and support documentation will get them the job interviews they are seeking.”
